Foreword

As we, the Senior Class of 1954, end our school days here, memories of the past fill our minds. Our good times together, our joys and sorrows, make up our memories of Grantham School.

We have spent many hours of toil recalling some of the best of our memories. You will find them mirrored in the pages of this annual along with the other things we love and hold dear. It is our sincere hope that you will find some measure of happiness in reliving the past with us.

Dedication

To Mr. R.L. McDonald We Dedicate This, the 1954 Grannawayne

It is rare to find in public schools a person who combines good organization, justice, knowledge, and true friendliness into one character. Just such a principal do we have in "Mr. Mac," as he is most often called. Because of his willingness to attend our ball games, parties and other social functions, he is liked and respected by students, teachers, and people of the community. We proudly dedicate this 1954 Grannawayne to "Mr. Mac."

CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1942, one hundred and twenty-four frightened and timid boys and girls entered the first grade of Grantham High School. Mrs. Addie Dunn and Mrs. Blanche Jervis met us with smiles and handkerchiefs for our tears. Later, part of us were sent upstairs to Mrs. Lillian Singer's room.

Miss Jean Cordell and Miss Euzelia Bridges looked at our smiling faces the second year.

To teach us the 3 R's in the third grade, we had Mrs. Rachel Cox and Miss Margaret Martin. Memories of rulers being used in the hand come with the fourth grade. Miss Grace Taylor and Miss Ruby Floyd were our teachers.

Miss Fannie Wilson and Mrs. Lenore Cox were our fifth grade teachers. Mr. R. L. McDonald came that year also. Mrs. Etta Blackman and Miss Mabel Deans were our sixth grade teachers. A number of romances began to bloom that year.

Romances increased in the seventh grade; but to keep us in check we had Mrs. Madgalene West and Miss Luna Whitaker.

We came up to the eighth grade to find Mr. J. I. Dunn and Miss Doris Lee waiting for us. That year we were separated with Miss Lee's class in the high school building. The highlight of the year was our trip to Raleigh. We also enjoyed several skating parties.

The ninth grade was new all around. An anxious and excited group of sixty-three found two new teachers, Mr. Eugene Driver and Mr. Cary Barnes, waiting to welcome us to high school. To our disappointment another course had been added, and we had no study hall. Although we lost several students, we gained Ann Neal and Garland Barnes. We enjoyed a party at Stevens' Mill and after much persuasion, they took us skating. Carolyn Westbrook, Lyn Scott, and Morris Brock represented us on the basketball team that year.

Miss Jean McCaskill and Mrs. Doris Sanderson were our tenth grade teachers. That year several got the marriage fever. Among those were: Carolyn Westbrook and Russell Stafford, Dixie Hayes, Alice Laws, Frances Jackson and Tommie Price. Although we lost quite a few, we gained Jirly Blackman. We enjoyed several parties that year.

In the fall of 1952 our Junior Class was a happy group of forty-two. Several of our classmates dropped out, but it was a pleasure to welcome Alma Blackman to our class. That year we weren't divided into two classes; Miss Elizabeth Lewis was our homeroom teacher. C. C. Ricks was elected class president; Ann Neal, vice-president; Patricia Jernigan, secretary and treasurer; and Elease Houston, reporter. Our Junior Play, "The Funny Brats," was a great success.

In May the Junior-Senior Banquet was a glorious occasion. It was made more brilliant by the balloons, and all the brightness of a circus. We had a real clown, Mac Joseph, who has been with the Barnum and Bailey Circus. The Rev. W. O. Henderson was our speaker.

On September 3, 1953, a long awaited goal was reached; thirty-four excited seniors came up to find Miss Doris Lee as our homeroom teacher. We elected Barbara Jinnette, class president; Ann Neal, vice-president; Patricia Jernigan, secretary; Peggy Hinson, treasurer; and Mary Lou Nethercutt, reporter. At the beginning of school we decided to have an annual and go to Washington.

We welcomed March because it took us out of classes for our Senior Play. After the play we went to Washington. This trip is one we will long remember.

We looked forward to May for two reasons. First, was the Junior-Senior Banquet. This year we were honored and didn't have to go through the preparation of decoration though we really enjoyed that part last year.

Second, was the thought of graduation. As we think of leaving our classmates, the underclassmen, our teachers and classrooms, we have a funny feeling inside. We try to decide if this feeling is a smile trying to come through or the tears trying to stay back as we remember that this is the end of our history as a group and the beginning of our individual lives.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the senior class of Grantham High School, in the year of one thousand nine hundred and fifty-four, being in sound minds and strong bodies and realizing that we shall soon depart from our Alma Mater, do hereby make and declare our Last Will and Testament.

ARTICLE I

To the undergraduates we leave the hope that you will soon be seniors. With this hope we leave our sleepiness in class, our quiet, businesslike class meetings, and our dignity.

ARTICLE II

To our faithful and long-suffering principal, Mr. McDonald, we leave our heart-felt gratitude for his helpfulness and co-operation in helping us reach our goal.

ARTICLE III

To our teachers, who were so patient with us during the last four years, we leave a part of what we've learned. We know it will be very helpful to them in teaching the undergraduates.

ARTICLE IV

I, Herbert Baker, leave my smallness of stature to John Hayes and Preston Sasser.
I, Garland Barnes, leave my position as manager of the Quaker Neck power plant to Carl Womble and Max Futrelle.
I, Glenwood Best, leave my witty ways to Everette Stevens.
I, Alma Blackman, will my ability to get a boy-friend and keep him to Joyce Cole.
I, Jirlie Blackman, leave my sweet smile and charming ways to Myrtle Warrick.
I, Virginia Boyette, will my quiet ways to Frances Williams.
I, Billy Britt, leave my long, slim build to Herman Warrick and Charles Brown.
I, Morris Brock, leave my list of female acquaintances to Shelton Jackson and Everette Reaves.
I, Hilda Brown, leave my vivid imagination and dreams of a nice-looking man to Tillie Tart.
I, Martha Casey, will my love for Goldsboro to Myrna Grady.
I, Elenor Daniels, will my height to Elizabeth Williams.
I, Dartha Denning, leave 6 (six) inches of my height to Molly Price so that she may look a boy in the face and not the nose.
I, D. T. Grantham, leave the contents of my cranium to Robert McDonald and Roy Weaver.
I, Jerry Grantham, leave my ability to drive to Nick Weaver and Albert Denning.
I, Peggy Hinson, will my quiet, sweet ways to Civil Edwards.
I, Elease Houston, will my friendly ways to Geraldine Sasser.
I, Billie Frances Jernigan, leave my long hair to Peggy Gurley.
I, Jessie Jernigan, leave all my excess weight to Joyce Best.
I, Margaret Jernigan, leave my love for Newton Grove and its products to Imogene Jernigan.
I, Patricia Jernigan, will to Annette Cotton my ability to speak my mind, so the senior class will have someone to express its opinion.
I, Barbara Jinnette, will my position as president of the Beta Club to Shelby Jean Sutton.
I, Nell Rae Keene, will my intelligence to Jean Aswell.
I, Shelton Keene, leave my love for a Chevrolet to Everette Denning and Billy Tart.
I, Lois Lambert, leave my desk in the senior room to some deserving junior girl.
I, Claudie Massengill, leave my love for a Plymouth to Bobby Keene and Sherrill Johnson.
I, Charles McCullen, will my ability to make up my own mind to Bennie Reaves.
I, Ann Neal will my love for all sports, especially baseball, to Sarah Grantham.
I, Mary Lou Nethercutt, leave my will power to become slim to Bobbie Flowers.
I, Lasky Odom, leave my rank of private last class in the National Guard to Darris Best and Eugene Wise.
I, C. C. Ricks, leave my ability to pitch a baseball to Sherwood Williford and Richard Cox.
I, Lyn Scott, leave my good looks to Thurston Price and Ray Radford.
I, Ernie Thornton, leave my ability to sling shags to Reuben Hollowell.
I, Sara Jean Thornton, will my cheerleading ability to Joyce Creel.
I, Carl Weaver, leave my neatness to Joseph Edwards.
I, Delmar Weaver, leave my athletic abilities to Joe Best and Garland Ray Mozingo.
I, Joyce Westbrook, will my position on the basketball team to Elease Keene.

PROPHECY

It seems that I never can catch up with my letter-writting, but I'm sure Patricia Jernigan would like to hear from someone, since she's stopped teaching. She and her husband, a well recommended agriculture teacher, are living in Japan.

Since I came from Australia, I haven't been able to concentrate on my work. My mind keeps flitting to the past, so I'll write her the news of our classmates and that plane trip I've just made.

I had finished with the Girls' Scout's Camp in Melbourne, Australia, and decided to fly to San Francisco.

The flight was indirect. In Seoul, Korea, I decided to get out to buy a souvenir when a cheery "Hello, Dot" greeted me. I looked up into the familiar face of Delmar Weaver, now a United States ambassador. He had scheduled a flight on the same plane, so we settled down for a comfortable trip.

Delmar had just taken his leave and I'd been on my vacation also. We began talking about Grantham and our former classmates.

A neat little airline hostess came around to see that we were comfortable and Delmar recognized Mary Lou Nethercutt. She told us that Barbara Ann Jinnette is a professor at the University of California and says that the fullbacks are wonderful.

She'd heard from Ann Neal, editor of the "Grantham Sun" now. Mary Lou's latest copy stated that Jirle Blackmon was resigning her position as bookkeeper at the bank to prepare for a big wedding. We noticed in the lost and found column that Garland Barnes was trying to retrieve two mules which had strayed during the busiest crop season.

Morris Brock, owner of a large tourist court in Florida, had invited Delmar to see him. On one of Delmar's train trips Jerry Grantham was the conductor. Since graduation from college Jerry seems to be a jack-of-all trades. He has worked at the F.C.X., as a car salesman, and now his present job.

D. T. had been in town to buy his brood new outfits. He'd stated that his pocketbook was really flat after equipping that crew, although he is a very successful farmer.

Remember how Lyn Scott dreaded the store that his father had? Aren't you surprised that the store is now in his name? Delmar found Billy Britt whose motto is, "Never put off until tomorrow that which can be done day after tomorrow," lying in the shade while the weeds were eating his crops.

Stevens's Mill is just as popular for swimming and the sign reads Rick's Mill. It seems that C. C. is a miller after all. Claudie Massengill, Grantham's most scientific farmer, was demonstrating his modern tractor. Claudie told him that Carl Weaver is teaching agriculture at Rosewood School.

Delmar was up to his old tricks, but luckier this time. The patrolmen were Ernie Thornton and the old helldriver, Shelton Keene.

In San Francisco, Delmar and I had two extra days so we decided to go to New York City. We dreaded to part with Mary Lou.

We took in a night club and were surprised to find Herbert Baker, proprietor. He informed us that Charles McCullen was his chief cook. When the entertainment rolled around, we found the singing and dancing sensation to be Miss Hilda Brown co-starring with Glenwood Best, world renown comedian and clown and considered the best by many since Bob Hope. We also visited Odom's Furniture Manufacturers. Lasky made quite a start during high school.

We took a train to Washington the next day. I went to my Girl Scout office and Delmar had an appointment with the president at 3:00.

I called Martha Casey, who is a secretary in the department of agriculture. She'd heard that Peggy Hinson is teaching math at Central High School in High Point, North Carolina.

In the Pentagon Building, I met Billie Frances Jernigan and Nell Rae Keen who said they were enjoying their work in Washington where they can have a new boy-friend each night. They'd received a letter from Elenor Daniels and Eleese Houston who are working in Baltimore.

When I was on my way down to Grantham, I ran into Alma Blackman and her husband who were on their way to Niagra Falls for their second honeymoon. Alma said Virginia Boyette is bookkeeper for her husband at Made-Rite Bakery in Goldsboro.

In Richmond, Virginia, I met Jessie Jernigan near the telephone office. She said Sarah Jean Thornton was working there also.

I was over in Newton Grove one afternoon and found Margaret Jernigan shopping for her brood of ten. She said Joyce Westbrook was living near Dobbersville with her four boys and four girls.

In Goldsboro, Lois Lambert showed me the newest line of materials in Belk's. She really enjoys her work there.

Joyce,
Words can never express the wonderful times we have had during our school days and such a wonderful friend you are. I have really enjoyed being with you every day of our school days. Joyce, you are one of the sweetest girls
I know and the grandest friend I have ever known. I sincerely wish you all the happiness and success, that one may have during life. I'll always remember the good times our
